

Going Global

Your ceiling isn't skill. It's geography.

---

You've hit the top of what your local market pays or offers for product roles, and the bigger opportunities are elsewhere, a UK Global Talent endorsement, a relocation, a remote role on a bigger team. But visa routes are confusing, and you don't know if your background is strong enough to make the case.

What's in this stage's playbook

- A breakdown of the visa routes that actually apply to Product Managers and Product Owners
- What a talent-based endorsement panel is really scoring, evidenced against a real, successful case
- How to build the portfolio and reference pack a strong application needs
- A straight read on whether your current background is ready, or what to build first

You need a real, evidenced case for global mobility, not generic visa advice.